Image OCR To

Image OCR to PDF Conversion

Image to PDF OCR conversion is used to convert images in various formats like TIFF, GIF, BMP as well as JPEG into PDF. The application makes use of the character recognition properties of OCR (Optical Character Recognition) so that the images may be effectively converted into PDF format. PDF has obvious advantages in terms of data encryption, safety and security on account of which it is the preferred format for data storage, archival and retrieval. There are many cases where image to PDF conversion is imperative as the images would need to be used for certain important commercial as well as personal applications that require greater security. One can easily name and catalogue image files which are converted into PDF and stores these to be retrieved at a later date without much effort. This also reduces the risk of losing track of important image files.

Image OCR to PDF Conversion Properties

Image OCR to PDF conversion tool is a professional tool that easily converts multiple formats into PDF quite easily. One can even scan paper documents with this tool such that these documents are converted into image files and then converted into searchable PDF files by Image OCR to PDF converter. This helps in issuing electronic books to the web quite seamlessly and rather effortlessly. This converter creates text-searchable PDF image and also text format with the accompanying hidden text layer. It also supports conversion of multiple files and directories into one file in a simple set of steps. This also has the functionality of sorting on file name when batches are converted. Apart from this, images can be easily selected and dragged onto the image OCR to PDF converter so that the conversion is completed without any difficulty.

Where to Avail of Image OCR to PDF Converter

Image OCR to PDF converters are easily available online or through retail stored that sell software solutions. There are quite a few companies which have identified the latent demand for such software and capitalize on this demand to supply such products and software solutions to discerning and also demanding consumers. Competing products have certain salient features which also mean that the customer has enough choice and can avail of multiple product options at reasonable prices.